Dear Students, Dear Colleagues,

Today, given the requests received in the last few days, I would like to confirm that the courses of the second semester are proceeding regularly, the academic calendar already published will not be changed and all courses will end in the first week of June.

For the summer exams session, as already mentioned, the working group composed of Professors from all the Schools, student representatives and some colleagues from the technical administrative staff is working to provide guidelines as soon as possible. The results will be shared with all the Professors, providing the methods of delivery of the exams and the respective IT support tools which can be adopted if the emergency does not allow a complete return in presence for the summer session.

At the moment, the working group has identified different exam modalities: from asynchronous evaluation of works and projects to the provision of multiple/open choice questions, to the provision of complete written tests with video control of the candidates. Following the same procedures adopted for the preparation to distance learning, we will contact the Professors to collect the needs of the individual courses and provide adequate training on the tools made available by the University.
