Dear Students, Dear Colleagues,

we started the organization of the exam sessions in distance mode with the provision of the tools supported and the beginning of the training for their use by the professors.

We will try to simplify as much as possible the use of these tools for the students, and we will send tutorials with detailed instructions as soon as possible. To take the exams students will need an internet connection through a computer equipped with webcam and microphone.

Although the delivery in distance mode may require some changes to exam modalities, the tools are flexible and allow different options: project delivery, oral tests, online written tests and even paper-based tests to be uploaded.

We asked professors to send a communication to their students to inform them of the exam modalities adopted for the summer session by May 18. Any detail not available at the moment will be communicated by the end of the semester.

I would also like to remind you today that on May 26 we will hold the first online job fair for students and graduates of Politecnico di Milano. The event is unique in size in Italy, because it involves the participation of 140 companies.

To attend the event, students have to register on the Career Service website by May 24: Virtual Career Day

This event is a demonstration of the fruitful collaboration with companies that, even at this difficult time for the country, has never stopped.
