

About Anyma:

Anyma is the electronic music and multidisciplinary artist Matteo Milleri, renowned for boundary-defying techno compositions, visuals and live shows. In 2024, Anyma became the first electronic music artist to hold a residency at Sphere Las Vegas, where the meticulously produced Afterlife Presents Anyma "The End of Genesys" cybernetic opera drew an audience of 200,000 people across 12 dates. Exploring themes of technology, nature, humanity, and coexistence, the show culminated Anyma's Genesys album trilogy featuring Genesys (2023), Genesys II (2024, Afterlife/Interscope), and The End of Genesys (2025), which drew the trilogy to a close in December 2025 with the release of a Deluxe edition. Anyma has recently collaborated with LISA (BLACKPINK), Joji, EJAE (K-Pop Demon Hunters), Sevdaliza, Grimes, Ellie Goulding, FKA twigs, and more, as well as taking on visual creative direction for The Weeknd's 2024 "One Night Only" concert in São Paulo. In 2025, Anyma held a summer residency at the world's first hyperclub [UNVRS] in Ibiza and headlined major festivals including Ultra Miami, Sziget Festival, and Zürich Openair. In the same year, Anyma launched a creative partnership with Oakley, ranked #10 on DJ Mag's Top 100 DJs list, and soundtracked the Vetements SS26 Paris Fashion Week runway show. He closed out 2025 with a headlining performance and creative direction at the League of Legends World Championship in China, and delivered a sold-out performance at the iconic Pyramids of Giza, where he unveiled his groundbreaking two-part show, "Quantum Genesys." Most recently, Anyma kicked off his world tour with a Coachella 2026 headline set premiering his brand-new audiovisual show, "Anyma presents ÆDEN." Anyma is currently performing this new show across Asia, Australia, Europe, and North America, marking milestones including China's largest-ever electronic headline show in Shanghai and a second summer residency at [UNVRS].