The University of Saint Joseph (Macao) is a Catholic university of China, rooted in a long tradition of intercultural exchange that has been the hallmark of Catholic higher education in Macao since the College of Saint Paul, founded in 1594.

The Master of Architecture is a comprehensive master programme that covers topics that range from digital design techniques, heritage conservation, construction documentation, management and entrepreneurship, urbanism and architectural research, with a founded appreciation of sustainability and the local/global context. Beyond instructing students in the history of the discipline and its accumulated techniques, the university provides space and time for reflection and experimentation – a platform from which to postulate alternatives, to develop unprecedented solutions to current problems, and responses to as-yet unknown ones.

The combined local and Portuguese roots of the University make it particularly suited to embody at the academic level Macao's strategic objective to act as a platform from which to boost relations between China and Portuguese-speaking countries.

Points of strength

Architecture studios and lecture-based modules are taught by a mixture of local faculty members and eminent visiting professors. All are internationally recognized professionals, providing the opportunity to develop the creative and technical abilities necessary to become a competent professional in Macau and the wider world.
